LETTERS

TO THE BANK DIRECTORS,

On the pernicious consequences of the prevailing system of Banking Operations; and on the facility of reducing discounts to any extent, as soon as the Bank of the United States commences business.—By M. CAREY.

LETTER II.

GENTLEMEN,

Agreeably to my proposed plan, I proceed to draw an outline of the calamitous state of trade and commerce. The picture shall be a true one. It is not my fault, if it be heart-rending.

I shall previously cast a retrospective glance at the times that are past & gone. When similar ones are to return, is in the womb of time.

Last year we closed an eventful war, in which every thing dear to nations was at stake. We acquired a large increase of glory—and our character was elevated in the estimation of all the nations of Europe. When the alarms of war had subsided, and blessed peace once more welcomed in the restoration of trade and commerce, we anticipated a series of uninterrupted prosperity and happiness. For a time our fondest hopes were realized. The whole nation, from the centre to the remotest extremities, exhibited the most glowing scene of happiness that the fondest wish of the most sanguine friend of the country could have desired. A sudden reverse took place, which commenced about twelve months since—and from that period to the present time, a large portion of the inhabitants of our cities have experienced more distress than they suffered during the ravages of a devastating warfare. This lamentable state of things has arisen from the deleterious spirit of speculation and overtrading, to which the extravagant extent of discounts by some of the Banks here and elsewhere gave every facility—from lending money too freely at one period, and withdrawing it too hastily at another.

The leading outlines of our present situation, are as follow:—

1. Remittances from the country, on which a great portion of our citizens depend for the discharge of their engagements, fall miserably short of what they had a right to expect.

2. Western notes, which form a large proportion of the few remittances received, are at a discount of from 6 to 20 per cent.

3. The regular sales of goods are very slow and dull.

4. Goods, foreign and domestic, when sold at auction, are sacrificed at a loss of from 20 to 45 per cent.

5. It is hardly possible to raise money on real estate of any description.

6. Those who hold bills receivable, intended to meet a discharge of their bills payable, are obliged to prolong the period of payment, from the inability of their debtors to pay, and from the danger of forcing those debtors to stop payment altogether.

7. Thus pent up and shut out from their resources, many of our citizens, besides bank engagements, owe heavily to the government for duties, and to individuals for goods purchased.

8. Money cannot be had of the brokers but at a rate of from 18 to 30 per annum.

9. It is extremely difficult and hardly possible, to procure new discounts at Bank for any note, how solvent soever the drawer and indorser may be. New accommodation notes are absolutely proscribed.

10. Various bankruptcies have taken place; and many persons are "tottering to their fall," and hanging on the very verge of the precipice of bankruptcy.

That this is a correct portrait in all its items—and that it is susceptible of great amplification, no man at all acquainted with the state of our city, will attempt to deny, without offering gross violence to truth.

In these circumstances, the hope or expectation of making any great reduction of discounts, or diminution of the amount of notes in circulation, is the child of folly or inconsideration; and the attempt to effect it must produce new scenes of ruin of the most disastrous kind, and to a most alarming extent. Should the attempt be continued, I shudder to consider the consequences.

When you have calmly reflected on these various items, and brought them fairly to the test of truth, I appeal to your feelings, to the duty you owe to the public in the high and powerful stations you fill, to decide upon the propriety of the curtailing system pursued for so many months past, which has produced such an abundant harvest of mischief—which has prostrated arts and manufactures—paralyzed industry, sunk the value of almost every species of property—which has laid the middle and lower classes of our citizens at the mercy of the wealthy, and produced the deleterious effect of "making the rich richer, and the poor poorer."

Sept. 21.

"I am strongly inclined to believe—that the addition made to the amount of bills discounted in the month of June, July, and Aug. 1815, by all the Banks, was at least three millions of dollars. And am likewise of opinion, that very nearly the whole was withdrawn in the four succeeding months. It is impossible to pursue a plan more injurious to morals, prosperity, or happiness.—The vile spirit of speculation, the source of a thousand ills, and the bane of virtue and public spirit, was, as I have stated in the text, fostered as in a hot bed, in the first period—our citizens were tempted to launch out into new enterprises, to erect machinery, to hire workmen, &c. and as soon as the money thus imprudently lent was fully invested, it was reclaimed. Ruin, wide spread ruin, followed. The cup of prosperity, which was just applied to the war-parched lips of our citizens was dashed to the ground. Had the reduction been gradual—had it extended to nine months instead of four, the effects would have been comparatively insignificant.

It is proper to state that this picture applies to towns and cities only. The agricultural part of our citizens are generally in a state of as high prosperity as they ever were before.

BOSTON, October 26

The ship New Galen, capt. Sherburne, arrived here this morning. She left London on the 10th of Sept. and Coves the 15th, and brings London papers to the 15th of Sept. inclusive. These dates, although a week later than we had before received, furnish scarcely any news.

Intelligence from France and the Mediterranean, was not so late as has been received here. Great anxiety prevailed in England to learn the issue of Lord Exmouth's expedition against Algiers, and extra messengers were stationed to meet his lordship's despatches, and to convey them to London.

The London Times, of Sept. 12. says: "An American envoy has landed at Ravenna, for Rome. What can the Pirates and the Americans want with his holiness?"

News from Rio Janeiro was to the 21st July. The projected descent of the Brazil troops on the territory of La Plata, to assist the royal Spanish cause, had been given up, even after the expedition had sailed, in consequence of a remonstrance from the British government. It is stated that Portugal had most probably engaged to re-conquer Buenos Ayres for Spain, as an equivalent for the dowries which the two Princesses were to carry with them on their marriage to Ferdinand and his brother.

By an ordinance of the 5th of September, the French Chamber of Deputies were dissolved, and a new Chamber directed to be formed according to the regulations established by the Chambers. Among the number of eighty-six presidents of departmental colleges, who have been appointed by the king, there are but forty-seven who were members of the dissolved chamber. This change, however important, is scarcely stated in the remarks of the Parisian editors. The change it is calculated, will give permanent stability to the present government.

It is again stated that the emperors of Russia and Austria, and the king of Prussia, are to meet at Warsaw.

The censors of two of the Paris papers have been removed from office for admitting improper political remarks to be inserted, and one of the ministers to the king had been removed from office for having issued from his press some improper political works.

September 5.

A new cause is now assigned for the late increase of the French army: it is said that France has agreed to lend an army to Spain for the purpose of recovering South America.

An elegant medal has been struck and presented by Mr. West, the venerable President of the royal academy, to the directors of the British institution, who subscribed to purchase his celebrated picture Christ in the Temple, for their gallery.

There was a fall of snow at Brighton, on Sunday; and a letter from Bengor, dated the 2d, says, "We have now snow lying on our mountains." At Brestford, on Tuesday morning, there was ice an inch in thickness.

Dr. Zaccinelli, at Padua, has published an essay "On the reasons why people use the right hand in preference to the left." He will not allow custom or imitation to be the cause; but affirms, that the left arm cannot be in violent and continued motion, without causing pain in the left side, because there is the seat of the heart and of the arterial system. Nature herself, therefore, compels man to make use of the right hand.

Sir N. Wrexall was liberated, by order of the Prince Regent, on Friday, from the King's Bench prison. He was sentenced, May 16, to six months confinement, for a libel on the Russian Court Woronzow, in his work of "Memoirs of my own Time."

Bonaparte.—The author of the recently published work at Paris, entitled "Letters on the war of Russia in 1812," gives the following characteristic anecdote of Bonaparte:—A few days before the passage of the Beresina, Bonaparte was marching on foot, with all the marks of the greatest uneasiness and the most lively agitation. The Prince of Berthier (Berthier) was some paces in advance of him. An officer, Col F., attached to the staff, was seen to come suddenly up and make a report to the Prince. Bonaparte, as he was coming up, overheard the words Russian and Beresina, and repeatedly exclaimed in an impatient tone, what are they discussing here? Berthier ordered the colonel to repeat his report; upon which the following dialogue ensued:

M. de F.—The Marshal has charged me to come and give an account that the Russian army of Moldavia have arrived on the Beresina, and has seized all the passages.

Bonaparte.—This is not true; it is false—it can't be so.

M. de F.—That two divisions of the enemy have seized the bridge, and have already occupied the left bank, and that the river is not sufficiently frozen over to make it practicable to pass on the ice.

Bonaparte [in a rage]. You lie; you lie! it is false.

M. de F. [calmly, and rising his voice little]. I was not commissioned to repeat the enemy's positions: the Marshal sent me to make this report: I perform my duty! The young officer who witnessed the scene, adds, "Seeing Bonaparte shake his cane, I thought he meant to strike the Colonel: but at the same time he leaned backwards, his legs spread asunder his left arm resting on his cane, gnashing on his teeth, his face breathing fury, and looking up to heaven, he raised his right arm as if to threaten it. A cry of rage broke from him; he repeated his menacing gesture towards Heaven, and apostrophised it with expressions of rage, energetic, the very word was horrible blasphemy. I can only say, that during my whole life I never saw a more horrible figure than his at the time."

The interesting Mrs. Beverly, well known in Bath, and other watering places, for delivering Readings and Lectures, has lately been displaying her rhetorical talents in a new scene of action viz. at the Court of Assize for the county of Warwick pleading her own cause against a naughty charge of jilting a pocket handkerchief in Birmingham! She attracted, as usual, a numerous and elegant company; and we doubt not that her impressive eloquence, as usual, affected the sensibility of a great part of her audience: but unfortunately there are twelve individuals, who were so obstinate and ungallant, as not to be persuaded that the handkerchief was picked up by mistake; and the consequence was that poor Mrs. Beverly, alias Elizabeth Richards, was sentenced to incarceration for the term of twelve calendar months.

ALEXANDRIA.

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 4.

At length we have the British Official Accounts of the humiliation of Algiers, which appears to have been more complete than at first reported. The power of Algiers is extinct, though its name remains. The fate due to all pirates has justly overtaken it, and the wonder only is, seeing how long it has existed, that those who had the means to do it had not earlier prostrated this fortified du-geon; for it has deserved no better name.
Lord Exmouth has, it is presumed, satisfied the expectations of the British nation. The plan of attack appears, as far as we can judge, to have been judicious, and to have been vigorously executed in the face of a desperate resistance. Nationalized as we are with the result, we wish not to be considered as seeking to detract from the merit of the achievement, when we remark, that to this triumph of the British arms our gallant seamen led the way, by shewing with how small a force stout hearts & willing hands could strike with awe, if not with dismay, the hitherto formidable power of Barbary.

Nat. Intel.

Mr. Warden, Am. Consul at Paris, has notified the American merchants, that being acquainted with all the Anti-Prize Cases, heretofore brought before the French Courts, and there being now a prospect, that some arrangements will be made for their settlement, offers his services, as agent, for their adjustment and recovery.

Since the democrats in office, by their intrigues and cabal, have brought the name as well as the practice, of encouraging into general detestation among the people their apologists and abettors affect to apply the term to delegates and representatives chosen by the people themselves for the express purpose of considering and discussing the merits of candidates for popular suffrage, and making nominations. The following specimen of this species of candour is from the Richmond Inquirer.

"A Caucus of Federal Delegates from Louisiana, Fairfax, and Prince William which met at Centerville on the 22d inst.
for the purpose of nominating a Federal Candidate, 'unanimously' recommended William H. Fitzhugh, Esq. as a suitable successor to Mr. Joseph Lewis."

Now it is well known that this caucus, as it is very wittily called, consisted of gentlemen from the different counties mentioned, chosen by public meetings of the citizens for the express and sole purpose of consulting together and making the nomination. If such an assemblage is a Caucus, it is time that some other name should be found for a cabal of office holders, who, without authority from any body, and with a view to the promotion of their own ambitious projects, hold occasional assemblies under the influence and direction of the very candidates whom they take upon themselves to designate, in violation of their duty and of the laws of the land.—U. S. Gazette.

THE CONSPIRACY.

Yesterday a respectable grand jury of the city of Philadelphia, found a True Bill for Conspiracy against Ann Carson, alias Ann Smythe, Jane Baker, Elisha Bowen, alias Davis, alias Owen D. Jones, and John Ryde, alias Henry Wallis, alias Nathaniel B. Burd.

Ann Carson and John Ryde, are both in jail. Jane Baker, the mother of Mr.
Carson, was, as our readers will recollect, liberated by the chief justice on the bail of Daniel Broadhead. She was yesterday delivered up, and the mayor's court refusing to take Daniel Broadhead as her bail, she was committed to prison.
Elisha Bowen had also been liberated on the bail of John Tenney; when called he did not appear, and a capias was issued against him. The offence of taking in sufficient bail is daily growing a greater grievance.

Yesterday a subpoena was issued in behalf of the defendants to require attendance of the defendant of the commonwealth of Pennsylvania. We presume the law was settled so far as not to compel the attendance of the chief magistrate; we refer to the cases of the United States vs. Cooper, and the United States vs.
Ogden and Smith.

On Wednesday at 11 o'clock, Ann Carson, Jane Baker and John Ryde were brought to the bar, & pleaded not guilty.
We have not heard of any day assigned for their trial.

General Gaines commenced the reading of his defence yesterday before the court martial. A spectator, on comparing the testimony even in part with the charges and the comments in the defence, cannot hesitate to pronounce the conduct of General Gaines throughout, to have been not only not censurable but laudable.

New-York, October 30.

The legislature of New Jersey met at Trenton on Tuesday, and on Wednesday the governor [Dickens] delivered his message; in which he says: "It is to be deplored, that upon the restoration of peace, the imprudence of the merchants in the great commercial cities of the Union, has planted our country into new distress, by a ruinous importation of European goods, greatly exceeding the means of payment; calculated to embarrass our domestic manufacturing establishments, and to introduce among our citizens, a degree of luxury and extravagance, ill suited to our condition or the genius of our government."

A gentleman, who left Eastport the 19th instant, informs, that the late report of a battle near that place, between some American fishermen and the British, is quite incorrect. The fact, he says, was, that the British cutter did order the fishing boats off, and they went off accordingly, without resistance, and that nothing farther had transpired on the subject—of course, the story of the battle is groundless.

OF SPANISH AMERICA.

From West India papers received at the office of the Freeman's Journal

St. Thomas, Sept. 5.

Commerce (thank GOD) continues to flourish in this colony, as will be obvious from the cursory perusal of the St. Thomas Marine Register, where it may be observed that the number of vessels which arrive here in ballast, and sail with commercial cargoes from our port, to those which discharge their cargoes here, is in the proportion of 7 to 4. We owe much to the wisely organized system which demonstrates consideration for our mercantile interests, and in an enlarged view of the general interests of the community. We have the advantage of foreign West India islands generally in time of peace our's is a free port for all nations, all of whom are equally protected by the government while within its precincts. May the cash and credit of our merchants never fail them.

A shocking occurrence was perpetrated during the last week. On the seashore at the Green Green's, opposite Register's Quay, a few paces from the road, among the bushes, was found the mui-lated body of a Mustee youth, apparently about 17 years of age. It is rumoured that this unfortunate young man, in a moment of despatch, put an end to his own existence.

Extract of a letter from Puerto Cabello, dated 10th Sept 1816

Yesterday we received the unexpected news of the taking of Barcelona by the Insurgents, commanded by Marino, Piar, and Monaga. After they had defeated Lopez, the latter sent an express to Barcelona to acquaint the governor of that place of the circumstance, requesting him to evacuate it previous to the arrival of the Insurgents, who were in much greater number than the troops quartered in Barcelona, which did not exceed 600 men. The governor accordingly gave leave to the inhabitants to embark themselves, and afterwards withdrew to Cu-maná.

Lopez with the remainder of the troops went to meet gen. Morales, who was about 15 leagues from Cumana, but whether he has succeeded in forming the junction, is not known; however, on the arrival of this news in Caracas, orders were given to the hussars of Fernando Septimo, and to a part of the regiment of Castillo, for immediately marching to the assistance of Morales.

"Mrs. Campo, the Wife of the governor of Barcelona, arrived in Puerto Cabello with only a small part of her clothes leaving all her furniture, &c. behind."

"We hope Morales will give us a good account of the whole."

Curacao, September 21.

The scho. Venus, which sailed from this port on Tuesday last, for St. Thomas, was obliged to put back on Thursday, in consequence of an unknown high swell of the sea from the Northeast, whilst the current was running from the Southward, which occasioned the waves to break frequently over the vessel on both sides.

On Tuesday last the sea rose on the North side of this Island about 20 feet above its usual level, and rushing into the land between the plantations Noord Kent and Hato, surpassed its boundaries, for at least two miles, leaving, at the ebb, large pools of salt water, and destroyed some corn that was sown on the latter plantation. This circumstance has no doubt been occasioned by the Northerly winds that have prevailed for these several days past, aided by the spring tides.

The total discomfiture of the Insurgents under Bolivar is confirmed. In consequence of which the Governor of Curacao, from the friendship existing between the courts of Paris and Madrid, had sent to Martinique proposing to shut all the ports on the Main against all nations, except French vessels, from that Island. And arrangements to this effect was to take place immediately—Sir George M'Gregor, who commanded the Insurgents after the desertion of Bolivar, was killed in the last action with the Royalists.

To the Editor of the Compiler.

Though it is not meet for a female to seek the public eye, and to shine in the newspapers, yet I am so overpowered by the importance of the subject, that I cannot forbear delivering a few ideas upon it. You must know, Sir, that I have almost been annoyed to death by the trouble of receiving and returning fashionable visits—and so completely was I satisfied that the present laws upon this matter required amendment, that a very particular friend and myself put our heads together for the purpose of framing a new code, or

THE RULES OF VISITING.

A few of these are as follows?

1st. Henceforth there are two days to be set apart in every week, for giving and receiving ladies' visits—These shall be Mondays and Thursdays. On each of these days, from 10 o'clock to 3, every house and lady shall be ready for the reception of such ladies as may choose to call. No excuse shall be taken for finding the house out of order.

This rule is founded upon the known fact, that so many are sadly put to it to keep our houses and ourselves always in trim to see company—Lud Mr. Compier, what embarrassment have I felt from being caught in dishabille!

2nd. Should any stranger, who will leave town before the next levee day, wish to see a lady, let 6 hours notice always be given, to put every thing to rights.

3d. The whole system of cards be at once abolished—among the ladies of Richmond. If one lady calls, and does not find the lady of the house at once, the matter is to be explained at the first meeting, and no offence to be taken for not calling sooner.

4th. This rule is to be dispensed with in favor of all strangers, who may leave a card if the lady be not at home, to show her it was that called, and where she she is to be found.

5th. On the levee days, every lady to be at home, and to see her guests—If she does not appear, it is to be considered that she wishes to drop the other's acquaintance.

6th. As ladies will call no longer than at present, they may stay a little longer, but no lady is to stay one minute longer than she finds it agreeable to all sides.

7th. At these visits all forms to be abolished, except what may be required by civility, and good manners. No slander, no flattery, no smirking or ill nature, no arrogance or presumption to be tolerated.

8th. No lady to visit another, to pick up materials for abusing her afterwards, for none is to visit, who has not some slight esteem at least for the lady of the house.

9th. The restrictions as to the levee days to be binding only among ladies, who care very little about knowing each other, they are of course dispensed with among friends or near neighbors, who happen to be on good terms. These may enter a house at all seasons of the day.

Feeling, Sir, the want of some of these rules in one person, and believing that they would be very conducive to the comfort of polished society, I take the liberty of sending them for the consideration of your readers.

Yours, most modestly,
LUCRETIA MACTAB.

SULLY FOR SALE.

THIS estate, situated in the county of Fairfax, twenty-two miles from Alexandria and the same distance from Georgetown, contains about seven hundred and fifty acres. Little River Turnpike passes through it half a mile from the dwelling house. The situation is handsome, and remarkably healthy; the water is good and abundant. The soil which was originally excellent, has for some years past had the advantage of improving husbandry. Plaster of Paris acting with powerful and immediate effect on all grasses and grain. The fields present a good surface for cultivation; and these, now untilled, are covered with red clover. The orchards are very large and thrifty; the collection of table fruit is choice and various. The mansion is spacious and well constructed; the outhouses are all conveniently situated; those for farming purposes are expensive, and excellent in their kind.

For a gentleman of leisure this would be a delightful residence; and a profitable estate to an active farmer. The title is indisputable, and perfectly unincum-bered.

A number of well taught orderly young men, with good stocks and farming utensils of all kinds, and the crops of the present year if desired, will be at the command of the purchaser.

Application may be made to the sub-
